

California Faucets Introduces the RINCON BAY™ Series

The sleek, new widespread lavatory faucet design blends transitional and art deco style to deliver a cosmopolitan feel

(Huntington Beach, CA, September 5, 2013) California Faucets introduces RINCON BAY™, the latest addition to its line of Custom Faucetry®. The sleek, new design described as, “transitional meets deco,” exudes the cosmopolitan feel of the San Francisco bayside town for which it was named. With an angular, low-set spout, and cool blade handles, RINCON BAY’s symmetrically balanced proportions deliver a timeless sense of sophisticated style.

“RINCON BAY is a fresh, new design that defines timeless elegance and modern simplicity by blending together transitional and art deco styles,” states Noah Taft, senior vice president of marketing and sales for California Faucets. “The low, aerodynamic spout and blade-style handles make this a fitting collection for a variety of interiors, while also allowing the flexibility to mix and match with other California Faucets series.”

RINCON BAY can be mixed and matched for a myriad of variations by swapping handle styles with the company’s many other faucet series. The design possibilities give homeowners and professional designers numerous options for adding a signature flare, or a personal touch. Like all California Faucets series, the RINCON BAY collection includes matching tub, shower, and accessories, and it is available in California Faucets’ 30-plus artisan finishes.

RINCON BAY 45 SERIES, and all California Faucets products, are designed, engineered, assembled, finished and tested by specially trained artisans at the company’s Huntington Beach, California manufacturing facility. Each product comes with the assurance that the purchase is
