Farewell Droopy Handshowers

California Faucets' Adjustable Wall Bracket securely positions handshowers right where they're needed for a comfortable, personalized shower experience

(Huntington Beach, CA, September 29, 2020) We've all experienced the aggravation. After you've lathered up during a refreshing shower, it's time to rinse off, but your handshower has drooped down so far that the only place getting clean is the floor. California Faucets' new Adjustable Wall Bracket for Handshowers comes innovatively to the rescue. A built-in spring return flexibly locks the handshower into place at the precise angle you need to get the job done. The water hits you right where you want it, making rinsing off a breeze. Simply pull out the swivel holder to engage the spring return and twist it from upright to your desired angle position. There are multiple positions available so you're sure to find the sweet spot you seek.

"If Goldilocks invented a handshower bracket, this would be it," quips Noah Taft, California Faucets Senior Vice President of Marketing and Sales. Taft adds, "The ease of adjustability, which can be seen in our demo video makes you wonder why nobody thought of this sooner."

Seven unique styles feature distinctive design details ranging from traditional and contemporary to steampunk or transitional. Just like all California Faucets products, the solid brass adjustable wall brackets are made-to-order and are available in a range of over 28 handcrafted finishes, including PVD finishes guaranteed not to tarnish. With the wide range of colors and stylish choices, upgrading the shower to suit any design aesthetic is made simple for designers and architects.

The easily Adjustable Brackets measure 2" from wall to bracket center and 2 3/8" from post center to bracket center. Prices range from $159 to $302 depending on style and finish. They are compatible with California Faucets' new All-Brass Handshowers, or any other handshower on the market.
